BOWDEN HAS LARGE TIME

May 24th was another Red Letter Day for Bowden and the weatherman having ordered perfect climatic conditions. The people of the sister towns all gathered here and did their mite to make things hum. We have not time nor space to go into details, but we can justly say that the races, ball games, sports, and dance were all enjoyed and everything went off in an orderly manner.

The band boys realized enough out of the gate receipts to meet their expenses. Crossfield and Bowden played ball, but Bowden were too much for them.

Innisfail and Olds at foot ball came out even, that is, one to one. The ladies baseball team surprised the old fans and the new way of catching as shown them by Mrs. Starke will no doubt be followed by our local team if it is possible to secure Joe Humphreys as catcher.

By far the most memorable event of the day was the baseball game played by the ladies of Bowden. Nothing daunted, altho sorely disappointed, at their not having an opportunity of putting it over Crossfield, when the time scheduled for the game arrived the nerve of the feminine population of Bowden, both old and young lined up with Mrs. P. McDermott and Mrs. F. L. Harris as captains and Miss Smart and Miss Anna Hayward as the respective pitchers. The game throughout was fast and furious and at the end of the third inning stood 16-13 in favor of last mentioned team, and they made good nine more runs in the first half of the fourth inning. Whether from fatigue or nervousness (the gaze of upwards of a thousand people may have had some effect) the losing side failed to add to their score in the last half of the fourth, and the score stood 25-13.

The spectators were unanimous in giving their verdict that they had witnessed the most exciting event of this glorious 24th of May.

BOWDEN.

S. Perrin is having eve drops on his house anticipating soft water.

Still we sell the only pure White Castile soap. At Perrin's.

Balls and balls all sizes of balls Perrin's Drug and Stationery store.

Jim Prouse sold his quarter sec of land to Senator Prouse of P. E. I.

Mrs. Risk of Seattle is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. P. Anderson this week.

10,000 envelopes—part of a stock arrived today at Perrin's Drug and Stationery store.

Mr. and Mrs. Schooley of Crossfield, were guests at the Harris home on May 24th.

We are sorry to report that A. McLean is again confined to his room with rheumatism. He is being cared for by his friends here.

Miss Smart of the Calgary Garbutt College has accepted a position in the News office as stenographer.

L. Prowse M. P. of Charlottetown P. E. I. is here this week accompanied by Mr. Ramsey visiting his son and brother.

Another nice wet, juicy rain arrived Wednesday night. If the tail of Halley's comet is in any way responsible for the delightful downpours the past three weeks we wish to rise up and in a loud voice exclaim "give us more tail."

Dr. Alf Woodward has at last found the appendix of our Tom Thumb engine and after giving it plenty of gas the appendix was removed. The operation seems to be successful. We hope so as we would like to get the News out on time next week.

MILNERTON.

Alma Barnes took a trip to Innisfail on Sunday.

Chas. Griffiths of Innisfail was visiting friends here this week.

Miss Myrtle Thurston is visiting friends in Wimborne this week.

Beware when you are passing T. U. Sarchet's place now as Cast Davis has a fierce looking dog running loose.

Cecil Sarchet's saddle pony (Babe) won 1st money in the pony race at Glenelen on the 24th and C. Griffiths (Doc) 2nd.

Our American friends are planning for a big day on the 4th of July let us all join in and help them make a big day of it.

Miss Nellie Thurston who has been a resident of Innisfail for sometime has returned home. We are glad to welcome her back again.

The local ball fan's went to Glenelen on the 24th and defeated the boys there to 17 to 6 but with a little more practice they will show our boys they cannot do it again.

Caroline News

Mr. Hungerford has returned to Montana.

C. L. Hall and sister were calling at Mr. Berry's Monday.

Bert Herford and family visited Mr. Dials last Sunday.

Geo. Addington of Mound was a Caroline caller last week.

Carl Anderson visited Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Langley Sunday.

H. A. Langley made a trip to Innisfail on business last week.

Mr. McDermott of Bowden passed through Caroline enroute to Clear Water, last week.

Mr. Gunston and W. H. Pengally of Innisfail were transacting business in Caroline last week.

One of H. A. Langley's yearling colts got out on a barb wire fence last week and is completely ruined while 3 others got scratched up pretty bad. With the poison weed and bark wire, a rancher stands a poor show to live in these parts.

Notice

All ladies who are interested in organizing a ladies baseball team at Bowden, are requested to meet at McCres hall on Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

Insurrection Expected

Tokio.—The war department has ordered the army divisions stationed in western Japan to be in constant readiness to proceed to Korea in the event of a general insurrection. It is believed that this step foreshadows important developments in the near future.

Where Do You Go From Here

Where do you go from here?
How tired I am of that phrase!
Out of the year, it grates my ear
Three hundred and sixty-five days.

When I leave home after a rest,
The conductor on the train
Takes a grip on my mileage slip
And hands it to me again.

The hotel man gets sociable
As I pay for high priced cheer.
And drops my bill in his yearning till
With a Where do you go from here?

The barber stands with a tip in his hand
And as I disappear,
Come in again he yells, and then
Say! Where do you go from here?

The friends I meet upon the street,
Keep dinging it into my ear
The only song the whole day long
Is Where do you go from here?

Till at last I dreamed
And to me it seemed
That my time had come to die
And with angels bright
I took my flight

To the pearly gates on high.
Saint Peter stood in a thoughtful mood,
At the foot of the Golden stair,
But raised his eyes, as I drew nigh
And asked with a doubtful air—

Your papers please
What ails your knees?
Then, grinning from ear to ear
"Oh, you're one of those traveling men
—Well! where do you go from here?"

Wimborne News

Chas. Nichols has started up a new beef wagon east of the Wimborne store.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thurston of Milnerton a seven pound girl.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson a fine 7½ pound boy, you should see how happy Harold looks now.

G. W. Jack has finished digging his cellar and will soon commence the erection of his cottage one mile west of Frontier school.

Pendergast Bros. are busy putting up a new house, of course it is one of the single boys who is doing most of the work. Good boy John!

Frontier School opened on May 3rd, Miss G. E. Vance is teacher. Every one is well satisfied even a few of the young men are wearing broad smiles.

(Willard Wales, formerly of the News Office, sent in the above news items.) We are in hopes that no serious results will follow, at school or elsewhere, eh! Bill.

John Gilgan is helping Pendergast Bros. put up their new house of course he intends to build on his own place shortly. There seems to be some attraction up north, we don't know what the attractions are but he takes a ride every Sunday.

In Remembrance.

In Remembrance of His Majesty, King Edward VII. who died of pneumonia on May 6th, 1910:

"Farewell" our dear King whispered,
As he left for realms on high;
He has passed through the gates a-jar,
Where we'll meet him bye-and-bye.

He is resting now with Jesus,
Numbered with His jewels rare;
He has crossed the silent river,
Free from sorrow, pain, and care.

The Angels bright attended him,
He has reached his home on high;
The sainted spirit's welcomed our
Dear brother to the sky.

He has fought and won the victory,
His soul was fully blest
On earth his work is finished
From labor he has rest.

Farewell! Oh, what a sad, sad word.
So full of grief and pain
Tis sad to part, but Oh! how sweet,
To die when death is gain.

Our loss is his eternal gain,
Our hearts with grief is riven.
But let us wipe our weeping eyes
We know he is safe in heaven.

Oh, may we put our trust in God,
While health and strength is given,
That we may meet our loving friends,
To part no more in Heaven.

Signed by
Tessie Woodward

IN PAIN FOR YEARS

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" BRINGS RELIEF

MRS. FRANK EATON

Frankville, Ont., Sept. 27, 1909.
"I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and took every remedy obtainable without any relief. Then I began taking 'Fruit-a-tives', the famous fruit juice tablets, and this was the only medicine that ever did me any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches."

"How did that man come to be regarded as an authority on the tariff? He never impressed me as much of a student."

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "He didn't spend his time reading books or theorizing. He found out what his constituents wanted, and got it."—Washington Star.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

The ever-burning question, "What shall we do with our boys?" seems to be satisfactorily answered in the following advertisement, which appears in the window of a Farrington road butcher's shop: "Wanted—A respectable boy for beef sausages."—London Tribune.

Sores Flee Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which acts like magic. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

They had been making hay while the sun shone, and when they had finished a high haystack the farmer's boy shouted from the top: "Say, mister, how am I going to get down?" The farmer considered the problem, and finally solved it. "Oh, just shut yer eyes and walk around a bit."

A negro was under suspicion for chicken stealing. He was called before the pastor and deacons of the chapel, and evidence was given as to character. The parson inquired of one of the witnesses: "Now, do you think that Brother Sambo is the man who would be likely to steal chickens?" "Well," said the witness, "I would not like to say, pastor; but if I was a chicken and Brother Sambo was about I would roost high."

LIVE BABY FOR BAIT.

Bakutius of the Congo Have Successfully Resisted White Man.

To bait spring guns and man traps with live babies seems to be a regular device with the simple Congo forest tribes, who know that the white man cannot bear to hear an infant cry. This peculiarity was discussed recently before the Royal Geographical Society in London by Mr. E. Torday, who with Mr. Hilton Simpson and Mr. Norman Hardy, made an expedition between October, 1907, and September, 1909, to investigate the native tribes in the Kasai Basin, in the centre of the Belgian Congo.

The Bakutius, said he, were almost the only tribe of this region who had been successful up to the present in resisting the advance of the white man. This was due to their skill in forest warfare. The way leading to their village was defended by poisoned spikes hidden by leaves.

They used bows and arrows set like traps in the form of primitive spring guns, and they used the baby bait because they knew the European would be unable to resist the temptation to pick up an apparently abandoned child. The poison they used was absolutely deadly.

When Mr. Torday, after the expedition had been saved from death by a toy elephant, tried an old-fashioned conjuring trick, and so got the tribe to volunteer to carry their loads to the next village in safety, he threatened to set fire to the river, and, as a beginning, lit up a little spare whiskey. This convinced the natives that the white men were able to destroy anything, and they were naturally very keen to get rid of the magician.

The clockwork elephant came into play through a difficulty in respect of currency. The territory of the Bakongo had never before been crossed by white men. The coinage of the tribe takes the form of bars of iron weighing two pounds, and valued in English money at exactly sevenpence.

When the people heard that the travelers' stock of iron was nearly finished, they began to show hostility. Mr. Torday explained that

The chief brought about the climax by ostentatiously stealing our chickens, and this was, of course, a declaration of war. We were not in an easy situation, for though we could have held our own in the event of a breach of the peace, we should have had to fight our way back to civilization.

At length a less important chief gave them the means of an escape from the difficulties. After the theft of the chickens, he came and explained that he had no bad intentions himself, but that the great chief had decided to kill them. Said the lecturer:

"I replied that if he wanted war he could have it, and I would slay all his people with my elephant. Fortunately, among the many objects which we carried about with us was a clockwork elephant, which was capable of waving its trunk and humming and walking along."

Relying on the imagination of the negro, I proposed to show him my elephant. Mr. Hilton Simpson accordingly took him before my tent, which I entered. I wound up the elephant, and made it walk on some boxes, and then the tent door was thrown open; our friend, seeing the uncanny beast, wanted to run away.

Mr. Simpson insisted that he should have another look, but this was too much for the chief, for, shouting "I am going to fetch those chickens which I have been stolen," he ran back into the village, and in a few minutes our property was restored to us.

Mr. Torday said that amongst the Basongo Meno tribes belief in transmigration was found.

An Ocean King.

If any man has earned the coveted title of "Ocean King" it is Lord Pirrie, who, it is announced, has purchased the numerous undertakings controlled by the late Sir Alfred Jones, with whom he was associated for many years. By this purchase Lord Pirrie becomes the greatest captain of the shipping industry. He is not only the premier builder of giant ships, but he has shown that he has the genius to sell as well as build. At present the great firm of Harland & Wolff, of which he is the head, is building for the White Star Line the Olympic and Titanic, which will be the largest merchant steamers in the world. Lord Pirrie's interest in ocean steamship companies is enormous, but when he takes control of the two undertakings, with which Sir Alfred Jones was chiefly connected, namely, the Elder-Dempster Shipping Co., Ltd., and Elders and Fyffes, he will acquire a great measure of control over a combined fleet of 245 ocean steamships owned by companies possessing a total capital of about $150,000,000.

Advantages of Education.

The college-bred man is no longer despised as he once was. Many of the graduates of the Guelph College are now occupying remunerative positions as managers of large farms in different parts of the United States and Canada. A number from South Ontario are now drawing large salaries in such positions. The other day we read of a teacher in the Washington State Agricultural College giving up his position as teacher with a salary of $2,000 per annum to take charge of a large farm at $3,000 a year and expenses paid and a share of the profits. Hard-headed business men realize the value of the educated farmer, and know that it pays to farm on scientific principles.—Pickering News.

Italian Greyhounds.

The graceful Italian greyhound is reputed to be the most symmetrical of all animals.

LAY FOR WEEKS AT DEATH'S DOOR

BUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. THOMPSON'S DROPSY.

It started with Backache and grew worse till the doctor said she must die.

Holt, Ont. (Special).—All the countryside here is ringing with the wonderful cure of Mrs. Samuel Thompson, who lay at the point of death for weeks, swollen with Dropsy, so that the doctor five different times decided to tap her but desisted because, as her husband said, "It might be better to let her die in peace." After the doctor had given her up Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Mrs. Thompson's terrible trouble started with pain in the back. She grew worse and the doctor treated her for jaundice for eight weeks. Then her feet and legs began to swell, and it was realized that Dropsy was the trouble. For seven months she suffered. The doctor said there was no hope; she must die.

As a last resort Dodd's Kidney Pills were tried. The improvement was slow, but gradually her strength came back. To-day Mrs. Thompson is a well woman. She says, and the country-side knows, she owes her life to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

If the disease is of the Kidneys, or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Only Obstacle

Advance Agent (to country manager)—There's only one dressing room in this theatre, and our company consists of eighteen ladies and gentlemen.

Manager—What's the matter? Ain't they on speaking terms?

Away With Depression and Melancholy.—These two evils are the accompaniment of a disordered stomach and torpid liver and mean wretchedness to all whom they visit. The surest and speediest way to combat them is with Parmelee's Vegetable Pills which will restore the healthful action of the stomach and bring relief. They have proved their usefulness in thousands of cases and will continue to give relief to the suffering who are wise enough to use them.

A suburban housewife recently reached the conclusion that the attentions of a certain policeman for her cook must be investigated lest they prove disastrous to domestic discipline. "Do you think he means business, Mary?" she asked. "I think so, mum," said Mary. "He's beginning to complain about my cooking, mum!"

FOR LITTLE BABIES AND WELL GROWN CHILDREN

Baby's Own Tablets are good for all children, from the feeble baby whose life seems to hang by a thread to the sturdy well grown child whose digestive organs occasionally get out of order. These Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles and make sickly, ailing children, well and strong. Mrs. H. Greenfield, Embro, Ont., says:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for children. I have used them for several years and always keep them in the house for my little ones going to school." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Why doesn't the policeman pay his fare?" inquired the old gentleman on the twopenny tram, observing that no money passed between the constable and the conductor. "Well, you know, sir," exclaimed the conductor, "you can't get twopenny out of a copper."

"Just the same," said the vegetarian, "a meat diet is injurious to the health." "Nonsense!" protested Muggins. "My ancestors for hundreds of years, ate beef and turkeys and geese." "Yes," replied the vegetarian, "and look at them today. They are all dead ones."

Advance Notice

Lady (at bookstall)—What is the best cookbook?
Shopman—One we have just issued that we expect to dramatize.

Men have reason to dread nimble-tongued women. A certain clever authoress was once asked by a writer of the opposite sex who is not remarkable for civility—"Wouldn't you like to be a man?" To this the lady readily replied, "Wouldn't you?"

Holloway's Corn Cure takes the corn out by the roots. Try it and prove it.

Mrs. Mulgrew—"Are yer going to send yer boy Tommy back to school after the holidays?"

Mrs. O'Dooley—"No, indade; me ambition is to make an M. P. of him phwin he grows up, and if he got too much eddication he'd be spoiled for the position intirely."

Minard's Liniment lumberman's friend

"Fishing?" inquired a man as he passed. "Yes," answered the boy. "Nice dog you've got. What's his name?" "Fish," replied the boy. "Fish? That's a queer name for a dog. What do you call him that for?" "Cause he won't bite."

INVIGORATING TONIC FOR RUN-DOWN PEOPLE

INNISFAIL DEPARTMENT

R V Wilson of Okotoks is visiting friends in Innisfail this week.

D Mitchell of Stettler, formerly town clerk of Innisfail, was in town this week on business.

Wanted—From Bowden, a few young men to join the Light Horse For further information call on, or write Lieut Watt.

Mr and Mrs G W West are leaving on Saturday for an extended visit to the east. They go to Charlottetown, P E I.

A party of young folks spent the 24th fishing out at the Medicine river. As usual the larger fish broke the lines and got away.

Quite a crowd from Innisfail took in the Bowden sports on the 24th and also the dance in the evening. All report a good time.

Alex Munroe left on Wednesday for Vancouver. On Monday night a party was given at W. Lundy in his honor which he was presented with a nice travelling case as a token of esteem from his friends.

Innisfail football team played their first game with the Olds team on the 24th at Bowden. The score was one all, with the play greatly in favor of the Innisfail team. This was not a league game.

Mr O Watt of Innisfail and Miss Ina Braton of Everts were married on Wednesday at her home. Mr Sam Smith assisted the groom, while Miss Maggie Braton acted as brides-maid. Rev Haberton of Innisfail officiated.

The Mount Royal Hotel is doing a rushing business, having something like eighty-five guests registered during the last four days. Some of them are E J Buchanan, Bowden; T Larore, Edmonton; K R Foster, Calgary; F Collicutt, Calgary; Jas McFarlane, Red Deer; T W Fountain, Toronto. The new proprietor J J McDonald informs us that he is having the house re-furnished, painted and papered, and that it will soon be in first class condition for accommodating the travelling public.

Oh You Butter Fat

The following letters will be of interest to Butter fat people.

Big Bend, May 9, 1910.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of April 28 appeared what purported to be a report of the deliberations of that august body known as the "Innisfail Creamery Directors," in which a motion was put and carried evidently unanimous, that people who refuse to deliver their cream to said creamery during summer months may be "allowed" to deliver their own cream; "also the cost of hauling be deducted from them, also that cream haulers be instructed not to collect cream from such people."

What an exhibition of loathsome vindictiveness on the part of these creamery directors. They in this way hope to crush out of existence what they imagine to be a rival concern in the shape of the cheese factory.

If the cheese factory deserves patronage the public should see to it that it is well patronised. The fact that it is being patronised by a large number of people shows that it deserves such patronage in preference to the creamery; in the action of this little bunch of would-be dictators shows that they consider the cheese factory a rival not to be despised. These frantic efforts of such people as the creamery directors to crush out independent action is the best kind of an advertisement for the cheese factory. This may not have occurred to the obtuse intellects who control the destinies of the cream factory, or assume to control it. They seem utterly oblivious to the fact that, in their frantic efforts to crush out competition, they are trying to establish a combination in restraint of trade. If this is not a "boycott" on the people who patronise the cheese factory itself, what is it?

Where is our much vaunted freedom? Where is our much lauded representative institutions? Where is that spirit of fair play that should dominate a civilized community? The cheese factory must stand on its merits. The creamery must also stand on its merits. The hierarchy known as the Innisfail Creamery Directors will find that their path will not be strewn with roses in this last effort to invite public attention to their insignificant existence.—Yours for fair play, A Schickler, A Mere Shareholder in said Creamery.

A Rejoinder

Dear Sir,—In your issue of May 12 there appeared a letter, apparently written by a Philadelphia lawyer or someone who has missed his calling and signed by the late cream hauler, A Schickler, howling at the motion passed by the Directors of the Innisfail Creamery relative to the delivery of cream by patrons.

The signer of the letter referred to hauled cream on the Big Bend route for two seasons. During the summer months he was making from $7 to $7.50 per trip and cream hauling was all right. In the winter he had to make the trip for 50c or even less and then there was nothing in it, but he averaged over $3 per trip the year round.

And yet, Mr Editor, these lovers of fair play would have a man go to their place all winter for about 5 lbs of butter fat, while they would send their milk to the cheese factory during the heavy flow. That might be fair play, but it seems to me more a case of everything for them, getting the whole cheese and the other fellows being satisfied with the scrapings.

They would try to persuade you that the Directors want to crush a flourishing industry. The only answer to this is, can they point out that it is hurting either Markerville or Innisfail creameries, these being the only ones in that district?

Possibly the reason for the nine or ten patrons of the creameries now patronizing the cheese factory is that cream is now graded at the creameries, and it takes more time and trouble to have a No. 1 grade.

If there is any vindictiveness on the part of any one is it not by the signer of that letter, a man who canvassed for the cheese factory when he was under contract with the Innisfail Creamery, a man who promised to haul milk to the factory at 10 cents per 100 lbs, and who, when he found out the patronage was smaller than he expected did not come up to the mark.

I shall leave the rest of the letter to the readers of your valuable paper and let them judge where the spite and ill feeling exists.

With creamery butter selling at from 30 to 40 cents per lb, with prospects of going higher, there does not seem to be much need to fear opposition from a factory paying $1 per 100 lbs of milk delivered. I am, Sir, One of the "August Board of Directors."

I Bateman.

M'GUTHCHEON

"Oh, rubbish!" exclaimed her ladyship. "I suppose you expect the poor darling to apologize."

"All this has nothing to do with the case. We're more interested in learning where we are and where we are to go. Permit me to have a look about."

His wife stared after him in amazement as he walked over to the canvas awning in front of the low dock building, actually elbowing his way through a group of natives. Presently he came back, twisting his left mustache.

"The fellow in there says that the English agent is employed in the bank. It's straight up this street. By Jove! He called it a street, don't you know?" he exclaimed, disdainfully eying the narrow, dusty passage ahead.

"There's the British flag, my lord, just ahead. See the building to the right, sir?" said Mr. Saunders, more respectfully than ever and with real gratitude in his heart.

"So it is! That's where he is. I wonder why he isn't down here to meet us?"

"Very likely he didn't know we were coming," said his wife icily.

"Well, we'll look him up. Come along, everybody. Oh, I say, we can't leave this luggage unguarded. They say these fellows are the worst robbers east of London."

It was finally decided, after a rather subdued discussion, that Mr. Saunders should proceed to the bank and rout out the dilatory representative of the British government. Saunders looked down the sullen line of faces and blanched to his toes.

"Tell him we'll wait for him," pursued his lordship. "But remind him, him, that it's inexpressibly hot down here in the sun."

They stood and watched the miserable Saunders tread gingerly up the filthy street, his knees crooking outwardly from time to time, very much as if he were contemplating an instantaneous sprint in any direction but the one he was taking. Even the placid Deppingham was somewhat disturbed by the significant glances that followed their emissary as he passed by each separate knot of natives.

"I do hope Mr. Saunders will come back alive," murmured Bromley, her ladyship's maid. The others started, for she had voiced the general thought.

"He won't come back at all, Bromley, unless he comes back alive," said his lordship, with a smile. It was a well known fact that he never smiled except when his mind was troubled.

"Goodness, Deppy," said his wife, recognizing the symptom, "do you really think there is danger?"

"My dear Aggy, who said there was any danger?" he exclaimed quickly, looking out to sea. "I rather think we'll enjoy it here," he added after a moment's pause, in which he saw that the steamer was getting under way. The Japat company's tug was returning to the pier. Lord Deppingham sighed and then drew forth his cigarette case. "There," he went on, peering intently up the street. "Saunders is gone."

"Gone?" half shrieked her ladyship. "Into the bank," he added, scratching a match.

"Deppy," she said after a moment, "I hope I was not too hard on the poor fellow."

"Perhaps you won't be so nervous if you sit down and look at the sea," he said gently, and she immediately knew that he suggested it because he expected a tragedy in the opposite direction.

They expected every minute to hear the shouts of assassins and the screams of the brave Mr. Saunders. Their apprehensions were sensibly increased by the mysterious actions of the half naked loiterers. They made off in various directions, more than one of them handling his ugly crease in an ominous manner. Bromley was not slow to acquaint his lordship with these movements. Deppingham felt a cold chill shoot up his spine, but he refused to encourage the maid's fears by turning around.

"Your lordship," said Mr. Saunders three minutes later, "this is Mr. Bowles, his majesty's agent here. He is come with me to—"

It was then and not until then that his lordship turned his stare from the sea to the clerk and his companion.

"Aw," he interrupted, "glad to see you, I'm sure. Would you be good enough to tell us how we are to reach the—er—chateau and why the devil we can't get anybody to move our luggage?"

Mr. Bowles, who had lived in Japan for sixteen years, was a tortuously slow Englishman, with the curse of the clime still growing upon him. He was half asleep quite a good bit of the time and wholly asleep during the remainder.

"Everything is transferred by hand, my lord, and the chateau is two miles farther up the side of the mountain. It's quite a walk, sir."

"Do you mean to say we are to walk?"

"Yes, my lord, if you expect to go there."

"Of course we expect to go there. Are there no horses on the beastly island?"

"Hundreds, my lord, but they belong to the people, and no one but their owners ride them. The servants at the chateau turned Mr. Skaggs' horses out to pasture before they left."

"Before who left?"

"The servants, my lord."

Lady Deppingham's eyes grew wide with understanding. "You don't mean to say that the servants have left the place?" she cried.

"Yes, my lady. They were natives, you know."

"What's that got to do with it?" demanded Deppingham.

"I'm afraid you don't understand the situation," said Mr. Bowles patiently. "You see, it's really a triangular controversy, if I may be so bold as to say so. Lady Deppingham is one of the angles; Mr. Bowles, the American gentleman, is another; the native population is the last. Each wants to be the hypotenuse. While the interests of all three are merged in the real issue, there is nevertheless a decided disposition all around to make it an entirely one sided affair."

"I don't believe I grasp," muttered Deppingham blankly.

"I see perfectly," exclaimed his wife. "The natives are allied against us, just as we are, in a way, against them and Mr. Bowles. Really, it seems quite natural, doesn't it, dear?" turning to her husband.

"Very likely, but very unfortunate. It leaves us to broil our brains out down here on this pier. I say, Mr.—er—old chap, can't you possibly engage some sort of transportation for us? Really, you know, we can't stand here all day."

"I've no doubt I can arrange it, my lord. If you will just wait here until I run back to the bank I dare say I'll find a way. Perhaps you'd prefer standing under the awning until I return."

It was fully half an hour before he was seen coming down the street, followed by a score or more of natives; their dirty white robes flapping about their brown legs. At first they could not believe it was Bowles. Lord Deppingham had a sharp thrill of joy, but it was short lived. Bowles had changed at least a portion of his garb. He now wore the tight red jacket of the British trooper, while an ancient army cap was strapped jauntily over his ear.

"It's all right, my lord," he said, saluting as he came up. "They will do anything I tell 'em to do when I represent the British army. This is the only uniform on the island, but they've been taught that there are more where this one came from. These fellows will carry your boxes up to the chateau, sir, and I've sent for two carts to draw your party up the slope. They'll be here in a jiffy, my lady."

Then, turning majestically to the huddled natives, he waved his slender stick and said: "Lively now! No loafing! Lively!"

Whereupon the entire collection of boxes, bags and bundles figuratively picked itself up and walked off in the direction of the chateau.

CHAPTER VI. THE CHATEAU.

THE road to the chateau took its devious way through the little town out into the green foothill beyond. Two lumbering wooden wheeled carts, none too clean, each drawn by four perspiring men, served as conveyances by which the arrivals were to make the journey to their new home.

Lady Deppingham's pert little nose lifted itself in disgust as she was joggled through the town behind the grunting substitutes for horseflesh. She sat beside her husband in the foremost cart. Mr. Bowles, very tired, but quite resplendent, walked dutifully beside one wheel; Mr. Saunders took his post at the other. The servants came along behind in the second cart. Far ahead, like hounds in full cry, toiled the unwilling luggage bearers. From the windows and doorways of every house, from the bazaars and cafes, from the side streets and mosque approaches, the gaze of the sullen populace fastened itself upon the little procession. The town seemed ominously silent.

At last they came to the end of the sunlit street and plunged into the shady road that ascended the slope through what seemed to be an absolutely unbroken though gorgeous jungle. The cool green depths looked most alluring to the sun baked travelers. They could almost imagine that they heard the dripping of fountains, the gurgling of rivulets, so like paradise was the prospect ahead. Lady Agnes could not restrain her cries of delighted amazement.

"It's like this all over the island, your ladyship," volunteered Mr. Bowles, mopping his brow in a most un-military way, "except at the mines and back there in the town."

"Where are the mines?" asked Deppingham.

"The company's biggest mines are seven or eight miles eastward as the crow flies, quite at the other side of the island. It's very rocky over there, and there's no place for a landing from the sea. Everything is brought overland to Ararat and placed in the vaults of the bank. Four times a year the rubies and sapphires are shipped to the brokers in London and Paris and Vienna. It's quite a neat and regular arrangement, sir."

"But I should think the confounded natives would steal everything they got their hands on."

"What would be the use, sir? They couldn't dispose of a single gem on the island, and nothing is taken away from here except in the company's chests. Besides, my lord, these people are not thieves. They may kill people occasionally, but they are quite honest, believe me. And, in any event, are they not a part of the great corporation? They have their share in the working of the mines and in the profits."

Mr. Wyckholme and Mr. Skaggs were honest with them, and they have been just as honest in return."

"I should think they'd be terribly tempted," said Lady Agnes. "They look so wretchedly poor."

"My lady," said Bowles, "there are but four poor men on the island—myself and the three Englishmen who operate the bank. There isn't a poor man, woman or child among the natives. This is truly a land of rich men. The superintendent of the mines is a white man—a German—and the three foremen are Boers. They work on shares, just as the natives do, and save even more, I think. The clerical force is entirely native. There were but ten white men here before you came, including two Greeks. Being part owners, the natives have decided that four hours constitute a day's work. They pay themselves accord-

"Most of the islanders have got three or four wives already," msy, as it were. No one works after midday, sir."

"I say, wouldn't this be a paradise for the English workingman?" said Deppingham. "That's the kind of day's labor they'd like. Do you mean to say that these fellows trudge eight miles to work every morning and back again at noon?"

"Certainly not, sir. They ride their thoroughbred horses to work and ride them back again."

"You take my breath away," said the other, lapsing into a stunted silence.

The road had become so steep and laborious by this time that Bowles was very glad to forego the pleasure of talking. He fell back with Mr. Saunders and proceeded to give the inquisitive lawyer's clerk all the late news of the island.

Bail Substitute in Egypt.

In Egypt persons placed under police supervision and unable to find the security demanded for future good behavior are employed, if they so desire, in cultivation or other work at a daily wage.

A Remarkable Sacrifice.

Dr. Diggle, the Bishop of Carlisle, Eng., who at the moment is being talked of as a successor to the late Bishop of Lincoln, is a strong believer in the dignity of labor. When he accepted the bishopric he told his congregation that he had been very fortunate at college as a young man in securing two lectureships and a good deal of coaching, which brought him in about £1,000 per annum. But he threw it all up for a curacy worth £110.

A JOYOUS CARTOONIST.

Tom Browne, the Famous Artist, Dies In Prime of Life.

Mr. Tom Browne, the well-known artist in black and white, died in London recently, at the early age of thirty-eight.

Mr. Browne will always be remembered as the creator of the two tramps, Weary Willie and Tired Tim, and as the originator of the boom in Dutch pictures.

No teacher taught Tom Browne how to draw. The instinct was there, and he found his models in the men and women of everyday life. He was only eleven when he started out to work in Nottingham lace market, and it was about that time he sold his first picture.

The drawing represented an old Nottingham public-house and its very stout landlord, with a bibulous-looking policeman saying, "Time, gentlemen, please." The delighted proprietor gave the young artist five shillings for it, and hung it in his tap-room.

When he was seventeen the young artist turned his footsteps towards London, where hard work soon took him into a foremost place.

Joyousness was the keynote of all Mr. Browne's work, and, indeed, of his whole life. He had a fund of merry anecdotes, and whether the points were against himself or anybody else, he loved to relate them.

Mr. Browne once took a tour from Paris to Gibraltar on a bicycle. He was accompanied by a friend, but as neither of them spoke Spanish the popular artist was obliged to make use of his pencil on all occasions. Only once did he utterly fail. Wanting to take some soup, he drew an elaborate large sketch of a soup tureen. The mistress of the hotel looked at it long and gravely, spread out her arms as if to convey the idea of size, and hurried away, leaving the two Englishmen considerably puzzled.

Presently she returned with beaming smiles, holding the sketch in one hand and the biggest pail in the village in the other.

Once Mr. Browne was introduced to a city magnate, who said: "Glad to make your acquaintance, Mr. Tom Browne. You are a public benefactor, sir. Many a merry Christmas my family have had with your crackers." Tom Browne regarded this as his best story. He never tired of telling it.

Mr. Browne once told an interviewer, "I remember in my early days an adventure we had with a negro as a model. I say we, because there were several of us, and we had our studio in a room over a stable. We could not afford a servant to attend to our wants, so we each took it in turns to play general."

"One day we met a negro, and almost fought with each other for the possession of the prize, for here was a model indeed. He earned his living as a public performer inside public houses—that is to say he was a glass-chewer. When we told him we wanted to paint him his face was a study. He was first amazed, then frightened. Again and again we humored him by telling him of our desire to paint him, till eventually he surprised us by asking, 'Will it come off?'"

A Lucky Poetess.

As a girl Miss Jane Barlow, the Irish poetess, began to send her poems to periodicals, under the name of "Owen Belair." Some were accepted and many returned, and often she thought it was of no use and then again she felt impelled to go on. Miss Barlow related an amusing story of the beginning of her connection with The Cornhill. She submitted a short poem to Mr. Payne, the editor, and was mortified beyond measure when she received a postcard which she deciphered to mean, "I have no use for silly verses." Her father, however, found the communication to be "I hope to use your pretty verses," much to the relief of the young author. For ten years Miss Barlow contributed poems and sketches to The Cornhill and other periodicals before she ventured upon her first book "Bogland Stories," which, by her father's advice, she signed by her own name. Next came the "Irish Idylls," which established Jane Barlow's position as a delineator of Irish life.

A Duke's Millions.

His Grace the Duke of Bedford, who recently completed his 52nd year, is the eleventh of the exalted line, and is reputed to own ten millions of money, as well as some of the most valuable ground rents in London. He has the blue eyes, square face, and high forehead of his race, with the cleverness and some of the eccentricity for which the Russell family is famous. The Bedford tradition seems against school, and the present duke was educated at home, and afterwards joined the Grenadier Guards. He is a simple man, with domestic tastes, and his chief interests in life are zoology and natural history. He owns two nicknames. When in India, as Lord Herbrand Russell, the natives converted his front name into "Hatband"; and his own family—for reasons unknown—have always called him "Rousseau."

A Measure of Time.

They had been engaged only a few days, so the wedding was still comparatively new.

"Can't you stay a little longer?" she pleaded as he gave indications of preparations to leave.

"Well, perhaps a very little longer," he said.

"How long?" she asked.

"About ten kisses," he replied.—Chit.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VIII.—SECOND QUARTER.
FOR MAY 22, 1910

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xiv, 1-12—
Memory Verses, 10-12—Golden Text, Prov. xvi, 32—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

For the present we are asked by the committee to pass by the wonderful thirteenth chapter—why, I know not—but we will return to it in a few weeks and have three lessons in it. Although this lesson today gives an account of the beheading of John the Baptist, the sad event evidently took place some time previous. But now, Herod hearing of the fame of Jesus, his guilty conscience tells him that it is John whom he had murdered. He was perplexed because some said that John was risen from the dead, some said that Elijah had appeared and others that one of the old prophets was risen again. Herod said, "Who is this of whom I hear such things?" And he desired to see Him (Luke ix, 7-9). Herod's question, "Who is this?" is an all important one. See also Luke v, 21; vii, 49; Matt. xxi, 10; Isa. lxiii, 1; Jer. xxx, 21, where the question is in connection with the forgiveness of sins, the son of David, the Messiah and the One who is to judge the nations.—As our Lord put it to Simon Peter, "Whom say ye that I am?" (Matt. xvi, 15). It should take hold of each one of us, and unless we can from the heart reply as Peter did it will be bad for us. "What is Jesus Christ to me?" is the great question.

In a previous lesson we saw messengers coming to Jesus from John in the prison, but now we have the account of his imprisonment and execution. Herod feared John, knowing him to be a just and holy man, and he heard him gladly and did many things. But Herod had taken his brother Philip's wife and was living with her, and John had told him that it was not lawful. Therefore Herodias had a quarrel (margin, inward grudge) against John and would have killed him, but she could not. But Herod had imprisoned John for Herodias' sake (Mark vi, 17-20). For some idea of what a wicked, unscrupulous woman can do see I Kings xxi, 7-15, and II Kings xi, 1, and consider that Babylon, which is said to be guilty of the blood of all that were slain upon the earth, is compared to a woman arrayed in purple and scarlet and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls (Rev. xvii, 4; xviii, 24). The life of John in prison must have been a sad and lonely one indeed were it not that he had access to God with whom he had spent so many years in the wilderness. No prison walls can shut out God or the angels, and an eternity of glory will more than compensate for the greatest sufferings of the saints on earth (Rom. viii, 18).

"Birthdays parties" should be happy occasions and innocent affairs, but this one of our lesson was one of the worst on record. It was a great affair, being a supper made by Herod for his lords, high captains and chief estates of Galilee. On this occasion the daughter of the wicked Herodias danced so acceptably to Herod and them that sat with him that Herod promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask. According to Mark (verse 23), "He sware unto her, 'Whosoever thou shalt ask of me I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom.' What an outcome of a drunken revel and a dance! The result of dancing in our times, so often accompanied by drink if not by drunkenness, has never been fully written, but enough has been written to lead thoughtful people to renounce the whole thing and especially the fashionable dancing school. If you care to know, write Dr. Sylvanus Stall of Philadelphia for further information. If the church had a tithe of the zeal of the devil to lead souls astray, how many might by the church be pointed to Him who is able to save from going down to the pit! But where is the zeal referred to in the words, 'The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up' (John ii, 17; Ps. lxxix, 9)."

The girl went forth and said to her mother, "What shall I ask?" And, being instructed by her mother, she asked for the head of John the Baptist. Quickly it is brought to her, and she carried it to her mother. Did ever a daughter carry or a mother receive so gruesome a gift? Yet this is in our day made into a play to entertain thoughtless people. The murder of John meant in due time the murder of Jesus, and the world lying in the wicked one seeks and applauds this kind of entertainment. It is written that the king was sorry, but the sorrow that does not lead to doing right amounts to nothing, and I fear that he has been sorry ever since and will be forever. According to Phil. i, 21, 23, it was a gain to John, a very far better, for he has been well and happy ever since. His disciples took up the body and buried it, but they did not bury John. We never bury people, but only the bodies in which they lived awhile. There shall be a resurrection of all dead bodies, those of the just and the unjust, but there shall be an interval of 1,000 years between (Luke xiv, 14; xx, 35; Acts xxiv, 15; Rev. xx, 5). The disciples of John went and told Jesus. That is the thing to do always and about everything, and then we shall know the peace of God which passeth all understanding (Phil. iv, 6, 7). Then also shall we know what it means to be guided in all things by Him (Prov. iii, 5, 6).

Self-preservation in a man is the worst law of nature—so says a woman.

METAL MONEY.

The Greeks Started Coining Long Before the Christian Era.

The invention of coinage is due to the Greeks, most probably to the bankers of Halicarnassos and adjacent Asia Minor Greek colonies, who toward the end of the eighth century B. C. began stamping the small gold and electron ingots which passed through their hands as currency with a mark of some sort intended to guarantee the weight and purity of the metal. Such ingots very soon assumed a round and more regular shape, which we find already in the older silver coins from Aegina, nearly contemporary with the Asia Minor "beans."

Curious to say, none of the surrounding peoples with whom the Asiatic and European Greeks were in constant communication, political or commercial, took up the wonderful invention which at present seems to us of such obvious necessity that we scarcely realize how the civilized world of old can ever have got on without it. As a matter of fact, however, neither the Phoenicians, with their practical commercial sense, nor the Lydians nor the Persians, who claimed the supremacy over the very cities where the new currency was initiated, nor, of course, the Egyptians, ever had coinage till the conquests of Alexander disseminated the Greek civilization all through the eastern world.

The Romans came to know of it through the Greek cities in Sicily and Magna Graecia and began striking silver coins toward the beginning of the third century B. C. In the meantime with the Greeks die sinking, like everything else, had fallen within the domain of art, and their coins, above all those struck during the fifth and fourth centuries B. C. by the Dorians of Sicily at Syracuse and Agrigento, have never been equaled and remain forever a standard of beauty for the artist and a model of perfection for the die sinker. - London Saturday Review.

A FAMOUS BANKNOTE.

The One That Cruikshank Drew and the Crowds It Drew.

One day about the year 1818 George Cruikshank was passing Newgate on his way to the exchange when, seeing a crowd collected, he went forward to learn what was the matter and saw that it was the execution of several men and women. He was horrified at the spectacle and on inquiring learned that the woman was being hanged for passing counterfeit one pound notes. He learned also that this punishment was quite a common thing, even though the poor wretches often sinned in ignorance, being the dupes of men who sent them to buy some trifles and return the change to them. Wrung with pity and with shame, Cruikshank went home and immediately, under the inspiration of his feeling, sketched a grotesque caricature of a banknote. He called it a bank restriction note - not to be imitated. He represented on it a place of execution, with spaces about filled in with halters and manacles, a figure of Britannia devouring her children and transport ships bearing the lucky or unlucky ones who had escaped death to Van Dieman's Land, or Australia, while in place of the well known signature of Abraham Newland was that of "J. Ketch."

He had just finished this when his publisher, Hone, entered and, seeing it, begged to have it for publication. So Cruikshank etched it and gave it to Hone, who exhibited it for sale in his window with startling effect. Crowds quickly began to gather and purchased so eagerly that the issue was soon exhausted.

Cruikshank was kept hard at work making more etchings. The crowds grew so great that the street was blocked, and the mayor had to send soldiers to clear it. Hone realized over £700 in a few days. - London Standard.

Pronunciation.

Dr. Johnson would not have consented to pronounce "wind" differently in prose and in verse. He insisted upon making the "i" long always. The story goes that, in order to crush somebody who preferred the short "i" in ordinary conversation, Johnson, rhyming all three words with "tinned," remarked, "I cannot find it in my mind to call it wind, but" - rhyming all three words with "billed" - "I can find it in my mind to call it wind." But his adversary got the better of him. Johnson himself always pronounced "gold" as "goold." "If I may be so bold," said the other, "I should like to be told why you call it goold."

War Rivals Are Now at Peace : Pekin.—An early announcement of two most important diplomatic moves greatly affecting the far east is confidently expected here in official and diplomatic circles. The conviction prevails that negotiations for a new Russo-Japanese convention have passed the signature and ratification stages and will be published about the middle of this month.

Well informed Japanese picture the convention in the nature of an alliance providing for complete Russo-Japanese co-operation with regard to China, with definite understandings concerning their domination respectively in their Manchurian and Mongolian spheres of influence.

Coincident with the publication of this convention is expected the promulgation of Japan's annexation of Korea. Tokio advises state that this culmination of Japan's guaranty of Korea's independence has been officially determined and will soon be proclaimed to the world.

To Study the Comet's Tail Berlin.—To study the physical effects of Halley's Comet upon the earth, an expedition to Iceland is being organized at the instance of a scientific association of the German University town of Gottingen. The members of the expedition hope to decide the question whether the passage of the earth through a comet's tail involves electro-magnetic disturbances of the earth's atmosphere. The expedition will co-operate with one that the Carnegie Institute is sending to Alaska and the other at the North Cape under the Norwegian physicist, Birkenhead.

Daylight Saving

Montreal.—Official orders have been issued by the management of the Canadian Pacific putting into force a daylight saving plan whereby the staffs go to work an hour earlier in the afternoon. The freight traffic department start immediately under the new system, and the accountants later. The operating department is not affected by the change.

Accuses Keir Hardie of Disloyalty London.—Mrs. Humphrey Ward's son, who is a member of parliament, calls attention to a statement of Kier Hardie, one of the leaders of the Labor party, to the effect that loyalty to the throne is a great superstition, blinding people to their own interests. He calls Keir Hardie a disloyal subject who has falsely sworn allegiance in order to sit in the house of commons.

Degree for Roosevelt London.—The university of Oxford will confer the honorary degree of doctor of civil law on Col. Roosevelt on May 18. Lord Curzon of Kedleston, chancellor of the university, will preside at the ceremony.

Monument to Montcalm Quebec.—A bronze monument of Montcalm, ten feet high is now en route from France. It is a replica of the one erected at his birthplace. It will be placed on a pedestal eleven feet in height and will probably be erected in Lansdowne park. No date has been fixed for the unveiling.

External Treatment Necessary for Eczema

Surprising results obtained from DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT in treating this obstinate skin trouble

Eczema may arise from a variety of causes, but once started it is a skin disease and will continue to spread and become more annoying until local external treatment effects a cure.

This is why Dr. Chase's Ointment has supplanted the old-fashioned internal treatments which were always disappointing in results.

When this soothing, healing ointment is applied you see and feel the benefits in short order. The itching, stinging sensations are overcome and with the wonderful relief thus obtained you are encouraged to continue the treatment until gradually the sores are healed up and the disease thoroughly wiped out.

What is so annoying and discouraging as disfiguring, itching, skin diseases? In Dr. Chase's Ointment you have a cure for such ailments and this ointment is so clean, pure and soothing that it becomes a great pleasure to use it. It uses makes the skin soft, smooth and velvety and for this reason it is much sought by persons whose skin is susceptible to the changes of weather.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N. S., states: "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched disease, and as there has been no return of the trouble I consider the cure a permanent one."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

A Simple and Cheap Medicine.—A simple, cheap and effective medicine is something to be desired. There is no medicine so effective a regulator of the digestive system as Parnelee's Vegetable Pills. They are simple, they are cheap, they can be got anywhere, and their beneficial action will prove their recommendation. They are the medicine of the poor man and those who wish to escape doctors' bills will do well in giving them a trial.

A Canadian Bull

Irishmen are generally blamed for that form of literary "bull" known as the mixed metaphor, but it was an Englishman, an Ottawa, a man known through many years for his easy and graceful oratory, who recently, at a banquet here, spoke of the green leaf of Canadian youthful endeavor bursting into the full flower of adult achievement.

The change of dietary which comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended to and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

Raid on the Intellectuals

Mistress (to maid)—Who's that man at the door?

Maid—He talks, ma'am, as if he was crazy. Says he's after taking the senses of the family.

Intelligent Anticipation

"I want some nice note-paper," murmured the blushing damsel. The gray-haired stationer brought forth a box. "This is very nice," he said. "Yes, it is rather nice," agreed the girl. "I'll have a hundred sheets." "And some nice envelopes to match?" queried the stationer. "Yes, please," replied the maiden. "Twenty-five," said the stationer. "And when does the wedding take place?" inquired the stationer. The girl colored. "Why," she exclaimed, "you don't think—." "Ah," chuckled the old man. "Do you think I have not been in this business long enough to know that when a young lady buys a hundred sheets of paper and only twenty-five envelopes, there must be something in the wind?"

Scene—A temperance meeting. Liberal minded townsman in the chair and rabid temperance speaker on his feet. Speaker (in a very excited manner): "For every glass of strong drink a man shortens his life by one week!"

Chairman (at the end of the speech): "Did I understand you to say that for every glass of strong drink a man takes he shortens his life by one week?"

"Yes," said the speaker. "Well," said the chairman, "I have just been reckoning it out and I find that I ought to have been dead about 500 years ago."

SORE FEET AND CHAFED PLACES.

"Zam-Buk" is best for chafed places, sore feet, or inflamed patches, caused by friction. For babies' sensitive skins it is especially adapted, because it is of pure herbal composition. Don't apply to the delicate skin of your children, either for cuts, sores or skin diseases, the crude salves made up from rancid animal oils or fats, with mineral coloring and scented matter to hide their unpleasant appearance and odor! Remember that whatever gets into the pores, gets into the blood. Stick to nature, and pure natural products. Zam-Buk is nature's own healer, and is, therefore not only superior in purity, but also in strength. Cures where other things fail. Use it, also, for piles, festering sores, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns, and every-day injuries. Every home needs it!

Jones "dined out" with an old acquaintance the other evening.

"Don't wait up for me, dear," he said to his wife. "I may be rather late, but it can't be helped."

At breakfast the next morning he was stonily silent; so was the breakfast-room clock.

"Maria, dear, there must be something wrong with that clock. I am sure I wound it up last night," he ventured at last.

"No," answered his wife. "You wound up Freddy's musical-box instead, and it played 'Home Sweet Home,' till three in the morning. The hall clock also has stopped, but I see that you have left your corkscrew in the barometer."

UNSIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for toilet, bath and nursery purposes, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but prevents inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, black-heads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the complexion and skin. All who delight in a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean wholesome scalp and live glossy hair, will find Cuticura Soap and Ointment most successful in realizing every expectation.

Stories of Spurgeon

Somebody asked Spurgeon, the great English preacher, whether a man who played a cornet could be a Christian. "I don't know," replied Spurgeon, "but the man who lived next door could not." On another occasion Spurgeon asked all who wished to go to heaven to stand up. A sailor kept his seat. Spurgeon asked him if he did not wish to go to heaven. "Not with such a crew as this," was the reply.

Young Wife—"Oh, Edward, you do believe that I am always thinking of economy, don't you?"
Young Husband—"Mabel, your shilling telegram this afternoon, telling me where to go and save sevenpence on a carpet-broom warns me that you are thinking of it too much."

GOOD BLOOD GOOD HEALTH

Just a Little More Rich, Red Blood Cures Most Ailments

The lack of sufficient red, health-giving blood doesn't end merely in a pale complexion. It is much more serious. Bloodless people are the tired, languid, run down folk who never have a bit of enjoyment in life. Food does not nourish, there's indigestion, heart palpitation, headache, backache, sometimes fainting fits and always nervousness. If anaemia or bloodlessness be neglected too long a decline is sure to follow. Just a little more blood cures all these troubles. Just more rich, red blood; then abounding health and vitality and pleasure in life. To get more blood the remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. No other medicine increases the blood supply so quickly or so surely. The cure actually begins with the first dose, though naturally it is not noticeable. This is not a mere claim. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been doing this over and over again in Canada for years. This is why thousands of people always have a good word to say about this medicine. The following is the experience of one of the many who praise this medicine. Mrs. J. J. Thibodeau, Bathurst Village, N.B., says: "Some years ago while teaching school I became so run down that I could hardly walk. My breath was short and I had failed in weight and lost color. I had to rest several times on my way to school and during school hours it took more than all my strength to fulfil my duty. My doctor advised me to give up teaching and take a long rest. But at this time a friend persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got six boxes. I hadn't finished the first box when I felt a little better and by the time I had used the six boxes I was fully recovered and enjoying the best of health. At a later date I was troubled with eczema and my faith in Pink Pills led me to try them again, and I was not disappointed, as they cured this trouble also. I can't praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too much for they have done me a power of good."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Minister—So you are going to school now, are you, Bobby?

Bobby (aged six)—Yes, sir.

Minister—Spell kitten for me.

Bobby—Oh, I'm further advanced than that. Try me on cat.—Chicago News.

Edith (to Ethel, who has just returned from Europe)—"Oh, Ethel, were you seasick?"

Ethel—"Sensick! Why, Edith, I went into the stateroom and sat down on my best hat—and I didn't care."

REGULARITY

of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. Salts and other harsh purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills—entirely vegetable—regulate the bowels effectively without weakening, sickening or griping. TROCHU.
From Trochu Times

New Attraction for Trochu

Mr W Ferraboschi of Bassano will shortly erect a pool room and probably a dance hall in Trochu. The building will be situated on Main Street, east of the Hotel Trochu and will be constructed to hold a large number of people. Mr Ferraboschi has been in Bowden for the past few days making final arrangements for the opening of his place.

ORCHESTRA FOR TROCHU

Very soon the strains of a Orchestra will greet our ears and comfort our weary souls. A large quantity of local talent is being gathered in from the obscurity of the past and moulded into a material and effective whole. Sergeant Townsend, Constable Godillot, the Ross boys and T Blachfield are expected to band together and afford the citizens of Trochu many idle hours of fleeting fancy and pleasure this summer.

TROCHU CIVILIAN RIFLE CLUB

The rifles of the Civilization Rifle Association have arrived from Olds and are in the care of Captain Pearson. The range has been marked out by the officers, and W R Prevette will be engaged this week in digging the pit. The targets will be fitted upon as soon as possible in order to allow a shoot at an early date. Sergeant Townsend will be glad to receive subscriptions from both old and new members. The entrance fee to the club is one dollar and the annual subscription is one dollar.

BIRTHS

On Sunday, May 8th to Mr and Mrs Gordon Tingley of Trochu, a son.

On Friday, May 13th to Mr and Mrs Thomas Paton of Elnora, a son.

MEETING OF SKY PILOTS

A meeting was held at the residence of Mr Lindsays near Curlew on Wednesday, May 12th of the local sky pilots at which, Mr Reid of Irricana delivered an address on the advisability of organizing an annual conference of the sky pilots of Central Alberta for the purpose of discussing the work in the mission fields. An interesting discussion followed and it was decided to hold the first conference in the Methodist church at Red Deer on August 25 and 26th next.

The following officers of the conference were then elected: J F Malcolm of Milnerton, President; J R Craig, General Treasurer; B J Rice of Kneehill, Representative of Methodist church; J Reid of Irricana, Representative of Baptist church; J R Craig of Trochu, Representative of Presbyterian church.

Death of Mrs E Moffat

We regret to record the sad death of Mrs Elizabeth Moffat, which occurred on Monday morning May 16th at the Trochu Hospital. Deceased was fifty three years of age and had been suffering from a serious illness for several months past. A short time ago her condition became critical and she was removed from her residence in Big Valley to the Trochu Hospital. All efforts to save her life was of no avail and a week after her removal to the hospital she passed away.

Deceased was formerly a resident of London Ont., and settled in Alberta with a family two years ago. The body was interred in the Trochu Cemetery on Wednesday morning, May 18th, the Rev Father Bazin officiating at the ceremony.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

From Trochu Times

Sheridan Bros are engaged in drilling a well at the residence of J C Burns on 1st Ave South this week.

The new post office is nearing completion.

L O Eckenfelder is erecting a new store next to his Meat Market.

Hunt Brothers of Irricana were in Trochu this week looking over prospects.

John Timothy's large outfit of graders passed thru Trochu this for the south.

Mr Carscallen, representative of the Massey-Harris Co was in Trochu this week on business.

Pierre de Beaudrap left for a visit to Edmonton and Camrose on Thursday to attend his interest in those cities.

Requiem High Mass was sung in the Roman Catholic Church at Trochu on Friday, May 20 for the repose of the soul of King Edward VII. The Rev Father P Bazin officiated at the solemn and impressive ceremony. In the evening Benediction was held in honor of King George V.

F Faulkner, who recently purchased the E E Redford place, near Mt House had the misfortune to have his house burn down last Sunday. He and his wife were out milking when the fire started and were unable to save anything. The fire is supposed to have started from the chimney.

Bring Their Men to Settle in the West

Nelson, B.C.—Two thousand men will be brought to the interior of British Columbia by the mountain lumber companies from the lumber districts of Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick. Their families will come later and all are expected to become permanent residents of Kootenay.

This had been decided at an important conference with East Kootenay mill men at Fernie. Five hundred of the men are expected within 30 days and the rest will be brought out as soon as they can be gathered. It is thought the project will be continued and that within the next few years at least 5,000 men will have been brought under the lumbermen's auspices. The object is to supply the lack of men which is seriously hampering operations and to fill the place of the Hindoos who are leaving.

Honors for Robert E. Peary

London.—Two hundred of Great Britain's foremost men recently honored Commander Robt. E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, at luncheon at the Royal Society's club, St. James street. Lord Halsbury presided.

When the guest rose to reply to his health, Sir George Reid brought down the house by crying: "A cheer for Mrs. Peary who let him go."

Among some of the more prominent men in attendance were Lord Strathcona, Earl Roberts, Harry Dewindt, the explorer; Sir Hiram Maxim, Sir A. Conan Doyle Capt. Scott, leader of next Antarctic expedition; Admiral Sir Lewis Beaumont, Major Leonard Darwin, president of the Royal Geographical society.

Waterways Treaty

Washington.—Secretary Knox and British Ambassador Bryce exchanged ratification of the international waterways treaty recently which relates to the use of waters on the three thousand mile boundary of the United States and Canada.

The provisions of the treaty establish a new tribunal of arbitration between this country and Canada by which differences arising between them and which concern only the two countries may be settled by their own representatives without resort to outside intervention.

The treaty is to remain in force five years and thereafter until terminated upon twelve months written notice given by either government.

Vatican Will Protest

Rome.—It is understood that the Vatican will forward a protest to the Prince of Monaco because of his recent visit to the Quirinal, notwithstanding the prohibition of the Holy See. It practically repeats the argument set forth at the protest sent to President Loubet after his visit to the Quirinal in 1904.
